

China coronavirus

January 27, 2020

Event

An outbreak of a new pneumonia-like illness, that originated in the central city of Wuhan, has been spreading from person to person. Early January, Medical experts in China identified the illness as a new strain of coronavirus -2019-nCoV-. With the outbreak of the Coronavirus, there is no current direction from the advising government authorities that restricts travel to most locations in China.

Nexperia Response

There is no impact to production in the Nexperia facilities in Guangdong province. Nexperia makes it a priority to fully support its staff and operations. Employees are being monitored and are receiving daily temperature checks. In addition, the travel history of employees is closely monitored; employees returning from HuBei province are restricted from entering the Nexperia facility until the 14-day quarantine period is completed.

Nexperia does not have suppliers located in HuBei province. The current supplier's production and employee status has been checked and is ok.

Along with the nCoV development, detailed production and delivery alignment is being executed on a daily basis between the relevant Nexperia Teams and delivery information will be available via our Customer Service Teams.
