The final two rounds of the ABB FIA Formula E World Championship take place this weekend at the unique indoor-outdoor circuit of the ExCeL London—an exceptional venue to wrap up what has been an action-packed Season 12.

The Hankook London E-Prix will see the Formula E grid take on the unique 2.077-kilometre, 20-turn circuit, which combines indoor and outdoor sections around ExCeL London.

The double-header finale will feature Pit Boost on Saturday, adding another strategic challenge to an already demanding final weekend.

For this special occasion, DS PENSKE will unveil an exclusive full-gold DS E-TENSE FE25, created especially to celebrate the season finale and mark the end of the four-year partnership between DS Automobiles and PENSKE AUTOSPORT.

At the wheel will be German driver Maximilian Günther and his British team-mate Taylor Barnard, both determined to give everything they have in the final two races and finish the season on a high.

With the championship reaching its decisive final chapter, Günther and Barnard will be focused on extracting the maximum performance from their DS E-TENSE FE25s throughout the weekend. Both drivers will be aiming to fight at the front, score valuable points and deliver a strong final performance for the team and its partners.

The 2026 Hankook London E-Prix will bring the curtain down on the 2025–2026 ABB FIA Formula E World Championship, with DS PENSKE ready to make the most of its final weekend.
